The Dynasty Era: The Islanders are best known for their dynasty in the early 1980s, winning four consecutive Stanley Cups from 1980 to 1983. They remain the last NHL team to win four straight championships, and their dynasty is considered one of the most dominant in sports history.

UBS Arena: In 2021, the Islanders moved into their new state-of-the-art home, UBS Arena, located in Elmont, New York. The arena, which was specifically designed for hockey, is part of the team's long-term plans to solidify their presence in New York.
